Murtagh to present land rolls Monday

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

One year ago today was the original deadline for completion of property reappraisal in Mississippi.

A blanket one-year extension reset the deadline for today.

Some Mississippi Counties will not meet that deadline.

Hancock County will.

Except for some "mopping up," the reappraisal project is complete, Hancock County Assessor/Tax Collector Edward Murtagh said Friday.

But Hancock County residents will not know for several months what their property taxes will be next year.

And, Murtagh warned, reappraisal is an ongoing program.

"The first time you relax, it's all for nothing," he said.

According to Murtagh, updating will start no later than October.

"And as the cost of living goes up or down, or cost of construction materials go up or down, we will have to come up with a multiplying factor," he said.

Monday Murtagh will present the land rolls to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

The land rolls, used for ad valorem tax purposes, include real and personal property for both businesses and residences.

Reappraisal resulted from an August 1980 decision of the Mississippi Supreme Court and an order by the Hinds County Chancery Court enjoining the State Tax Commission from accepting or approving the tax rolls of any county unless all real and personal property subject to ad valorem taxation within the county was valued as nearly as possible at its true value.

The purpose of reappraisal is to equalize assessments.

That equalization, Murtagh said, should reduce taxes for some Hancock County residents after the millage rate has been set.

"The general rule of thumb is one-third of the taxpayers pay more, one-third pay less and one-third stays the same."

After the supervisors review the land rolls for ten days, Murtagh explained, they will go into an arbitration period of about two weeks during which individuals can file protests.

After the land rolls are finalized, they are sent to the State Tax Commission for acceptance or rejection.

"The land rolls must show both appraised value and assessed value."

Height variance for condo recommended to council

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Board of Adjustments, decided Friday to recommend that a height variance be granted on the old St. Joseph Academy property.

The variance, if it is approved by the city council, will allow construction of a building more than 35 feet high on the site. A city ordinance presently prohibits buildings higher than 35 feet unless a variance is granted.

Jay LaCoste, a Jackson architect and former Bay St. Louis resident who now owns the property, told board members he wants to build a mid-rise condominium on the site of the academy building.

LaCoste presented the board with preliminary plans for the structure, which faces the beach and is designed to look as much like the old academy building as possible.

A shrine on the property and the old academy gymnasium will be preserved, as well as most of the trees on the lot.

"We conducted an extensive two-year design study and pinpointed the locations of the trees," LaCoste explained.

"The construction of the condominium will destroy only two pecan trees and an oak tree that was struck by lightning a while back and is in bad shape."

He added that his original plans called for several buildings scattered over the property, but said he changed them when he discovered that scattering the buildings would destroy too many trees.

The gymnasium will be restored as closely as possible to its original appearance, and said it may eventually be used to house civic functions.

An agreement for the perpetual maintenance of the shrine has already been reached, LaCoste said.

The architect told the board that the condominium will contain fewer than 100 units that will be sold, not rented. Each unit will have a beach view and a private balcony.

The building will be about 15 stories high with a maximum of seven units per floor. Total height, LaCoste said, will not exceed 200 feet.

Preliminary plans also call for the construction of a pier, a swimming pool and a tennis court.

LaCoste said he hopes to have his CONDO—Page 9A

Public input only a trickle at water resources workshop

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

If attendance at a public workshop in Bay St. Louis Thursday night is indicative, Gulf Coast residents are not overly concerned about water resources.

A total of five persons joined the five persons conducting the meeting called by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to discuss a new corps project.

Of those attending, only one man, a resident of Pearllington, was from Hancock County.

The other four included a resident of Gulfport, a couple from Pass Christian, and a Sea Coast Echo reporter.

Meeting Coordinator Barbara Pearlstone of Gulf Regional Planning Commission said attendance was not as large as we had hoped at similar meetings in Biloxi and Pascagoula, but the discussions have been excellent, she averred.

Study Manager Howard Danley of the Corps' Mobile district explained the purpose of the public meetings was to identify needs and priorities for a Hancock/Jackson/Harrison Counties water resources study authorized by the U.S. Congress.

According to Danley, the study will result in a plan for development, use and construction of water and related land resources of the river basins, coastal areas and streams, lakes and estuarine zones.

Study topics, he said, may include consideration of the needs for flood protection, use of flood plains, navigation facilities, regional water supplies and wastewater systems, water quality control, recreational facilities, enhancement and protection of fish and wildlife, enhancement and protection of the environment, and development of economic and human resources.

"Since we have just initiated the study, we're not sure what problems the public may perceive there to be along the Gulf Coast in terms of future water supplies."

Danley said the corps has begun studies to determine the amount of water presently being used in the three-county area and to project use rates for the next 50-year period.

The Bureau of Economic Analysis, he said, is providing population data and the U.S. Geological Survey is providing data on the availability of surface water and ground water.

"Gulf Regional Planning Commission has completed a draft report on all the various agencies that control, regulate or construct water resources or water-resources-type projects in the three counties," Danley said.

"Using that, we can determine if existing agencies would be able to complete the plans we recommend, or if a new agency would have to be created."

The project, he said, will also involve the Soil Conservation Service and the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Danley said all studies will be completed in late August or early September.

At that time the corps will start to design potential solutions to whatever problems are identified.

A reconnaissance report in March of 1985 will contain recommendations either to continue or not to continue with further studies, he said.

If the recommendation is to continue, PUBLIC INPUT—Page 6A

New county jail receives support

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson and architect Fred Wagner were guest speakers at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition Thursday.

Wagner referred to the current jail as being a "serious blight on our community."

The current jail was built in the mid-50's to house some 12-15 inmates. However, Wagner reported the total inmate population has risen to as high as 50 in recent years.

The architect made a slide presentation of the overcrowded conditions of the jail and also showed slides of a proposed jail which was defeated by a narrow margin in the November election.

Peterson said, "Conditions are most critical as I spend half of my time trying to decide who is going to be let out of jail instead of who is going to be placed in jail."

During discussion, several locations for a new jail were mentioned.

"I have an obligation to the people, and the only answer is a new jail. The decision as to where one is located is up to the supervisors (Hancock County board of supervisors)," Peterson continued.

Peterson commented on the good cooperation between law enforcement departments and the various towns on their decisions.

"You know there are many different opinions as to where the jail should be located, but we should be able to agree on a location," he said.

cent of the people in jail are not convicted of a crime, with many waiting for a trial as they are unable to make bail. In the jail they are packed like "sardines," he commented.

It was announced that the Hancock Chamber's first task force is dealing with the need for a county jail.

The directors of the chamber voted Tuesday night to eliminate standing committees and substitute a "task force" system.

Prior to a vote on the jail issue, the Hancock Board of Supervisors and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland appointed a 36-member citizens committee, which recommended the replacement of a new jail with a $2.5 million bond issue.

A suggestion was made by Bill McCreary that the most important thing is to get a new jail built as soon as possible, no matter where it is to be constructed.

McCreary also questioned as to whether the county had been given to moving the county seat and jail to a new location.

The chamber's task force was a new idea. The chamber's task force was a new idea. The chamber's task force was a new idea.

Waterway speed limits established in Hancock

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Board of Supervisors Thursday adopted speed limits for several waterways in Hancock County.

The limits, resulting from boat speed studies, covered both safety and noise. They were originally proposed to the supervisors by the Pascagoula City Association about a year ago.

The limits are: 10 miles per hour in the Bay St. Louis Harbor, 15 miles per hour in the Grand River upstream of the Hancock County line, and 20 miles per hour in the other waterways.

The limits are: 10 miles per hour in the Bay St. Louis Harbor, 15 miles per hour in the Grand River upstream of the Hancock County line, and 20 miles per hour in the other waterways.

classified as public highways.

Therefore, he said, county supervisors have authority to set speed zones for "highways" within their county boundaries.

The supervisors agreed to speed limits of 10 miles per hour for inner canals, 15 miles per hour for areas outside the canals, and for areas outside the canals, and for areas outside the canals.

The supervisors also discussed the need for a speed limit on the waterway.

"You don't need to replace the roof—just repair it."

The supervisors agreed to the emergency roof repair but took no action on a proposal for general repairs to the building including enclosing and air-conditioning space formerly used for a bookmobile garage.

"We're beginning to run out of room," Wusnack said.

"We have more audio-visual equipment, more tables, more chairs," Wusnack said.

Wusnack said the space would be used to store historic records, research materials and other equipment.

It would be used by staff, she said, and would not be carpeted or have ceiling tiled installed.

Additional repairs include reconditioning the roof, replacing rusted doors, painting and replacing damaged ceiling boards.

Total cost of the project, Wagner estimated, would be $18,000 to $20,000.

The roof repairs will cost several thousand dollars, he said.

Wusnack noted the building is jointly owned by Hancock County and the City of Bay St. Louis.

She said she will present the proposal to city officials also.

But details regarding shared payment of repair costs, she said, would be discussed later.

Murtagh said. "In the past, they just showed assessed value."

"There were inequities within counties and between counties statewide." Also previously, Murtagh said, the tax commission had to have 60 percent of the land rolls in before they even looked at them.

"Now," he said, "they will be judged on an individual basis."

By law, the millage (tax) rate must be set by September 15.

Because total county revenues are limited by law to a ten percent increase over the previous year and because appraisals are higher than in prior years, Murtagh said the millage rate will have to be reduced.

"The total assessed valuation for the county should more than double," Murtagh said.

Last year it was $63 million. The board of supervisors will set the millage rate after they consider needs of the various county funds and the levies required to produce the revenues necessary to meet their budgets.

Those funds include monies for water and fire protection districts, road and bridge construction and maintenance, education, sanitary landfill, public health, mental health, emergency medical service, Soil and Water Conservation District, the pauper fund, Port and Harbor Commission, library, hospital, mosquito control, Veterans Service, Youth Court, Chamber of Commerce and the park fund, among others.

Once the millage has been set, Murtagh said, real and personal property is assessed at 15 percent and public utilities and automobiles are assessed at 30 percent.

By September 15, then, a property owner should be able to figure out taxes on his home by multiplying its appraised value times 15 percent times the established millage rate.

That figure, however, is further reduced by the homestead exemption increase from $5,000 to $7,500.

Persons who have filed for a regular homestead exemption will receive a millage reduction on the first $7,500 of assessed value.

Persons over 65 or totally disabled persons are 100 percent exempt on the first $7,500 of assessed value, Murtagh said.

Murtagh said every house in the county was individually measured and every detail was considered, including carports, out-buildings and porches.

"Screened porches cost less to construct, so we percentaged them," he said.

For the past two weeks Murtagh's reappraisal office has been conferring with property owners, answering questions and hearing complaints.

"There's been very little question about the values set," Murtagh reported.

"We've had a lot of responses from people who didn't understand their notices."

Concerning persons who feel the true value of their property is too high as stated on notices recently mailed by the assessor's office, supervisor's attorney Walter Gex said at a board meeting Monday, "Just ask them if they will sell their property at that 'high' price—you won't hear any more from them."

Murtagh said the reappraisal program will cost about $1 million.

But it's well worth it, he believes. And because the project was carried out locally, the county has saved money, he said.

"We had bids in the beginning to do the work for $1.5 million."

"And most of the money has stayed in Hancock County because we employed local staff."

Hancock Schools provide for handicapped pre-schoolers

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board voted Saturday to allow three handicapped pre-schoolers early entrance to a program at Hancock North Central Elementary.

The decision was made after cancellation of the pre-school handicapped program at Clermont Harbor school. Parents of the children, all of whom are four to five years old, had expressed concern that their children might backslide if they are not exposed to an educational program before entering elementary school.

The three will be enrolled in a handicapped program at Hancock North Central Elementary if their parents can provide them with transportation to Kiln, where a Hancock North Central bus will pick them up.

One parent at the meeting expressed concern that he may not be able to afford transportation for his child, but board members said some kind of arrangement could possibly be made before school begins.

The program in which the children were enrolled last year was funded through state and federal money until 1983 but was supported by the district last year. Board members decided to cut it June 19 during budget discussions, according to Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

The board also voted to accept its amended budget for the 1983-84 school year after spending about an hour discussing its contents.

The amended budget lists total expenditures as $4,237,281 and total funds on hand as $5,188,756. Original figures were $4,306,029 in expenditure estimates and $4,602,256 estimated funds.

In other business, the board re-employed Rhea Scaffie as cafeteria supervisor, extended two part-time cafeteria positions to full-time and added two part-time positions.

Advertising for 28 tables and seating units for the Charles B. Murphy

Elementary School cafeteria was also approved.

The board also voted not to join the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges for the 1984-85 school year. Randolph said membership in the association costs about $1,500 per year with about $2,000 more as a fee for a district self-study no longer required by the state.

The association standards were used by numerous districts before the Education Reform Act, but Randolph said state requirements are now higher than association standards.

The board meets again at 8 p.m. Monday.

ETV Brief

VIETNAM REVIEW

The first "television war" returns to America's living rooms this summer when Mississippi ETV rebroadcasts "Vietnam: A Television History" at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning July 3. It was first seen on ETV last fall.

The Vietnam war was termed a "television war" because Americans followed the war through media coverage replayed on the evening news every day.

It is probably widely held that that memory of Vietnam still haunts the American conscience—a deeply closeted skeleton in the nation's history.

The programs fill in pieces of the Vietnam puzzle, revealing, for example, why the North Vietnamese did not get everything they wanted out of the Tet Offensive, despite its negative effect on American morale.

The series is neither a polemic nor a testimonial, but a history—a history that starts with the political breakdown of Vietnam in 1945 and beyond.

The producers emphasize that it is neither a hawkish justification nor a dovish indictment of what Americans did there.

The series presents the story of the Vietnam era as seen through the eyes of those who lived it on both sides—from presidents to followers of the peace movement, from generals to foot soldiers.

The Navajo language was used successfully as a code by the U.S. in World War II.

In another matter several supervisors resigned from other legislatively-created boards on which they have served.

Their resignations resulted from a Mississippi Supreme Court decision that members of one government branch may not serve on bodies of another.

Bert Courge resigned from the Soil Conservation District.

Both men said they would recommend replacements at Monday's meeting.

Sam Perniciaro and Roger Dale Ladner resigned from the Gulf Regional Planning Commission Board, with Perniciaro recommending Herbert Klein of Waveland as his replacement and Ladner recommending Douglas Necaise of Bay St. Louis as his.

Travica said he will not resign from the South Mississippi Planning and Development District Board.

SMFDD, originally a creature of the Legislature, is now an independent non-profit organization, Gex said.

Also on Thursday the supervisors asked the jail committee to present a recommendation regarding a new jail for Hancock County.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said he feared disagreement about a site would jeopardize passage of a bond issue to construct a new jail.

"Everybody feels we need a new jail," he said.

"I think the site issue is the only question."

Board Attorney Walter Gex agreed.

"I think a considerable majority—more than 60 percent—are in favor of a new jail, but you may get into some problem areas as to site."

"You're talking about a significantly different amount of money," he said, referring to alternate proposals to construct a new jail and expand the present courthouse or construct new facilities at a new site.

"The board has to decide what to put on the ballot."

"If we put a new jail at its present location," Wagner noted, "we're pretty much committed to keeping the courthouse on this site for the next 20 years or so."

"To build new space on this site we'll have to have more land."

"The most important thing you could spend money on is purchasing adjacent land," Wagner said.

Fishing rodeo highlights July Fourth holiday

The annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo will be July 4-8 in Gulfport at the small craft harbor.

Competitive fishing begins any time after 12:01 the morning of July 4 and ends at 4 p.m. on July 8. All fish must be checked by the weighmaster before 8 p.m. daily and before 4 p.m. on July 8.

Contestants may harbor their boats at any pier and transport their catches to Rodeo Headquarters by any means of transportation.

All contestants and boats must be registered before they begin to fish for prizes. Individual registration is free. Boats competing for the Grand Boat Award must pay the boat registration fee of $5. All sport fishermen and women fishing from pleasure craft, yachts or charter boats must be registered contestants.

The rodeo is presented annually by communities and civic leaders of the Gulf Coast and will be staged with almost continuous entertainment at no cost to visitors. The beauty pageant of the royal queen and princesses is a yearly feature of the rodeo and is held in Biloxi. Miss Karen Ladner, Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, will represent the chamber in the competition on June 30.

Official registration forms for the rodeo may be obtained at the chamber office.

Reservation receives 'A' rate

The Salmen Scout Reservation near Sellers in Hancock County received a national accredited 'A' rating for 1984.

Regional representatives reviewed the camp's operation and facilities as well as a complete appraisal of the staff and program.

Mandatory standards included items as tested drinking water, milk supply, refrigeration, physical exams, medical inspections, health log, latrines, waste disposal, state and local permits, licenses and sanitation inspections.

This camp has 1,400 acres of rolling hills and beautiful pine trees. Scouts do wilderness camping and sleep in 2-man tents in well-spaced patrol areas.

For information contact the New Orleans Area Council Scout Service Center at 504-337-0780 or any scoutmaster.

Supervisors to compile inventory of vehicles

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Hancock County supervisors missed a deadline to file reports with the state auditor's office because the original request for the reports never reached them.

An undated form letter from State Auditor Ray Mabius reported that "one major project this office will undertake this summer is a comprehensive inventory audit of motor vehicles owned or leased by county governments."

The letter requested that current motor vehicle inventory listings be compiled for every governmental entity receiving public funds through the board of supervisors.

"Enclosed forms" were to be returned by May 25 to the manager of the Office of Property, Inventory in the state auditor's office.

James Pfeiffer, board secretary, told the supervisors Monday the letter was supposed to have been sent to Board President A.A. Kellar and Board Attorney Walter Gex.

"They were never received," Pfeiffer said, "just a followup request."

An inventory list which Pfeiffer provided to the state auditor's office in an attempt to comply with the request was not acceptable, he said, because it was not submitted on the form forwarded with the missing first letter.

Pfeiffer has now received a copy of that first letter and the appropriate form.

"Only one," he said. "I had to make copies."

And the supervisors are now proceeding to comply with the request, which includes not only a listing of all vehicles but their speedometer readings, current value and type of fuel they use.

Pfeiffer said Thursday he has been advised by the auditor's office that someone from that office will be coming around to check every piece of equipment in the county in followup to the inventory compilation.

Three arrested in connection with burglary

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three Gulfport residents were arrested Saturday morning in connection with the burglary of a Diamondhead residence according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator. Ladner said, "James V. Everts, 29, Rt. 5, Box 1369; Robert C. Schaefer, 25, 2502 Wollmark Road, and Gary L. Simms, 33, of the same address; all of Gulfport, were arrested at 4 a.m. Saturday by the Hancock County sheriff's deputies in connection with a Diamondhead burglary."

The trio was returned to the Hancock County Jail, where they were charged with the alleged burglary of household items and bond was set at $5,000, Ladner said.

The case is being handled by Sheriff Ronald Peterson and Ladner. They said it was still under investigation.

'feasibility' studies would take three to four years to complete once funding is received, he added.

Danley said another series of public workshops will be held in mid-December or January to explain progress to date and to discuss problems, plans, alternatives, costs and benefits in connection with the project.

According to the workshop announcement, "Growing concern regarding the quantity and quality of our ground-water supply and other pressing water resource issues led to the funding of the initial stage of this study."

"Public input is vitally important to identifying the needs and priorities of the study and to define public support for the study," the notice continues.

Hancock County residents who missed the meeting but desire to help identify needs and priorities may contact Danley at U.S. Corps of Engineers, PO Box 2288, Mobile, Ala. 36628, telephone (205) 694-3833; or Pearlstone at Gulf Regional Planning Commission, 1232 Pass Rd., Gulfport 39501, telephone (601) 864-1167.

The deadline for written comments is July 12, Danley said.

Circuit judge speaks at meet of law secretaries

James E. Thomas, Circuit Court judge for Mississippi's Second Judicial District, was guest speaker for the June meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association held at the Western Sizzlin's Steak House in Gulfport.

Thomas discussed various aspects of circuit court procedures.

New members Sheila Ladner, Shannon Paola, Sarah Holley, Joan Jordy, Glenda Gregory and Elizabeth Brewer were initiated by President Billie Ruddick and Vice President Christy Freeman.

Approved as committee chairmen were Elizabeth Brewer, Day in Court; Carolyn Varnado, NALS Official Course; Henrietta Caranna, Legal Secretary of the Year Contest; and Doris Atton, Boss of the Year Contest.

A legal education quiz on the courts was presented by Patsy Bishop.

Chairman Linda Smith reported on chapter activities in conjunction with the Mississippi State Bar Convention held in Biloxi June 6-9. Members of Harrison-Hancock LSA assisted each day at the reception desk and helped staff two babysitting centers during the convention, she reported.

Betty Lou Clark, local chapter members and Bar Liaison Chairman for the state association, addressed the general assembly of the convention, explaining the purposes and goals of the Legal Secretaries Association, Smith said.

The next chapter meeting will be held July 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the Western Sizzlin's Steak House on Courthouse Road in Gulfport.

Patrol expects fewer 'grim statistics' on one-day Fourth

Mississippi Highway Patrol officials say since this year's Fourth of July holiday will be a one day observance in the middle of the week they are not expecting the large amount of traffic on the highways as during longer holiday periods.

The 30-hour Independence Day observance begins at 6 p.m., Tuesday, July 3 and ends midnight Wednesday, July 4. "Our troopers will patrol until the early morning hours on Wednesday and Thursday to assist motorists and remove drunken or drugged drivers from the highways," Highway Patrol Chief Col. George Saxon said.

Saxon said during last year's observance more than twice as many male drivers were involved in traffic accidents as female drivers.

"During the 78-hour holiday period last year, 325 traffic accidents occurred on the state's roads, highways and city streets. There were 407 men drivers, 197 women drivers, and the gender of 24 drivers involved in the 325 accidents was not recorded. There were three fatalities," Saxon said.

He said there are usually more men involved in traffic accidents because of the 1.7 million licensed drivers, 931,558 are males or 127,065 more men are licensed to drive in Mississippi than women.

He said the most dangerous time of day for travel during last year's observance was between 3 and 6 p.m.

"Statistics show that from 11 a.m. until midnight during the three-day observance last year, 274 accidents took place with 100 occurring in the three-hour period from 3 until 6 p.m.," the chief said.

This year's Fourth of July observance will be the shortest since 1979.

New movie rating designed to aid parental guidance

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A new movie rating—PG-13—which becomes effective today should give parents better guidelines to follow in supervising their children's movie-going, Jim Ganczak said Thursday.

Ganczak, manager of Cinema 4 in Choctaw Plaza, Waveland, thinks the new PG rating will be strictly used. "Anything leaning that way will fall into the new rating," he predicted.

The new PG-13 category will 'strongly caution' parents to give special guidance to children under 13 who want to see films that may be too dramatically intense, sexual or violent for them.

PG-13 is the first new rating to be introduced since the voluntary industry movie-rating system began in November, 1968.

The new rating represents a compromise between major movie studios and theatre owners.

The studios wanted a restrictive rating barring children 12 and under from seeing films considered too violent or intense.

Theater owners were reluctant to try to police a second category in addition to the current R rating, which restricts those under 17 from attending certain movies without a parent or guardian.

Ganczak said he feels he is able to enforce the R rating but that it is not always easy.

"The only nights we have real problems is Tuesday, Friday and Saturday," he said.

The average attendance at Cinema 4 on Tuesdays is 1,200, he said.

"We have boys on the floor by the restricted movies," he said.

"They cover the doors and check all ticket stubs."

In addition, movie staff patrol the theatre to make sure patrons are not smoking or talking too loudly.

When they discover a youngster in an R-rated movie, Ganczak said, the youngster is asked to leave.

"We don't give them any warning and we don't send them back to the movie they bought a ticket for," he said.

"We throw them out."

The Cinema 4 staff consists of Ganczak, an assistant manager, eight girls and two boys.

Ganczak has been manager since September, 1982.

Announcement of the new rating was made jointly in Hollywood by Motion Picture Association of America President Jack Valenti and National Theater Owners Association President Joel Resnick.

They acknowledged they were responding to general criticism that the rating system was basically using only two ratings, PG and R.

The other two ratings—G for general audiences and X which prohibits admission to those under 17—are seldom used for mainstream Hollywood releases, Valenti and Resnick said.

Ganczak agreed, noting there was 'such a tremendous differentiation between PG and R that the standards started to mix through.'

"We've had a lot of PG movies with nudity and bad language," he noted.

"I think the censors started to move toward saying brief nudity is okay if there's no sexual contact."

And nudity and language, he said, seemed to be more a controlling factor in movie-rating than violence.

Ganczak said the new rating cannot serve as a substitute for parental concern and authority.

"If parents really want to supervise their children's movie-going, they have to see the movie first themselves."

final plans drawn up and presented to the city council for approval in time to begin construction before the end of the summer.

Construction is expected to cost roughly $24 million.

In other business, the board voted to recommend that a side yard variance of about three feet be granted to Gene Taylor, a Beach Boulevard resident.

Taylor requested the variance in order to build a two-story addition to his existing residence.

The request was disputed by Paul Vegas, Taylor's next-door neighbor.

Vegas asked that the variance not be granted because he said the distance between the two houses is not enough to accommodate a two-story addition without overlooking his sun porch and taking away some of his privacy.

Election law reform hearing set Saturday

Herman B. DeCell, chairman of the Election Law Reform Task Force sponsored by Secretary of State Dick Mofus, reports that public hearings will be held on Saturday, in each of the five congressional districts.

The hearings will begin at 10 a.m. and last until noon, and may be extended where necessary to allow additional participation by those in attendance.

"We believe it is essential to provide a public forum on this matter of vital interest to all the citizens of the state," said DeCell, "for that reason we are soliciting recommendations of the public on how our election laws might be improved."

The Election Reform Task Force was formed to address the concerns shared by many people, including state officials such as Governor Bill Allain and Attorney General Ed Pittman, that Mississippi elections laws are cumbersome, confusing and inadequate in several areas.

Task Force, which consists of legislators, circuit clerks, county election commissioners and others involved in the election process, will study the laws and identify problems prior to drafting legislation to be introduced in the 1985 legislative session.

"The public hearings on Mississippi election law reform will be held in each of the five congressional districts," the secretary of state said.

The first hearing will be held in the First District at the Waveland Civic Center, 1100 Waveland Blvd., Waveland, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 7.

The second hearing will be held in the Second District at the Ocean Springs Civic Center, 1100 Ocean Springs Blvd., Ocean Springs, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 14.

The third hearing will be held in the Third District at the Gulfport Civic Center, 1100 Gulfport Blvd., Gulfport, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 21.

The fourth hearing will be held in the Fourth District at the Biloxi Civic Center, 1100 Biloxi Blvd., Biloxi, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 28.

The fifth hearing will be held in the Fifth District at the Pascagoula Civic Center, 1100 Pascagoula Blvd., Pascagoula, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, August 4.

Students model for local shops

FLOWERED FACE — Jan Fromeyer, a model at a recent fashion show sponsored by several local businesses, shows off unusual make-up created by Diane Reynolds of Just For You. Her hairstyle was created at Trendsetters and her jewelry is from India Inc. of New Orleans and available locally from Trendsetters.

By DENA BISNETTE

Landmark Town Square customers recently got something extra with lunch when several local businesses presented a fashion show at the restaurant.

The show, called "Tea Room Modeling," featured local high school girls as models. Instead of parading on a stage, the girls circulated through the restaurant's dining rooms, visiting with customers as they showed jewelry, make-up, hairstyles and clothing.

The products they showed included hairstyles from Trendsetters; customized make-up designs, manicures and pedicures from Just For You; swimwear and oriental silk clothing from Starr Flash; and jewelry from India Inc.

All of the businesses sponsoring the show are in Shieldsboro Square except India Inc., a New Orleans business that distributes its products locally through Trendsetters.

Models included Diane Reynolds, Alicia Pearson, Bitsy Thrombley, Chelise Brodman, Kristen Bowles, Melissa Bradford, Jan Fromeyer, Stephanie Preston, Candi Bode, Missy McDonald and Bonnie Rinehart.

Flowers for the program were provided by The Flower Shop.

EXPLANATIONS — Two customers at the Landmark Town Square Restaurant listen as Alicia Pearson, a model in a recent fashion show, explains her make-up design from Just For You and her hairstyle from Trendsetters.

PASTEL BEADS — Stephanie Preston shows a set of pastel beads made from coral and angel skin highlighted with dark jade and designed by India Inc. The price tag is attached because the beads were for sale at a recent fashion show at the Landmark Town Square Restaurant in which Miss Preston served as a model.

FASHIONABLE TRIO — Jan Fromeyer, Stephanie Preston and Chelise Brodman display their make-up, hairstyles, manicures and jewelry for customers at the Landmark Town Square Restaurant during a recent fashion show.

INSTRUCTIONS — Teresa Arnold, co-owner of Trendsetters, gives instructions to model Kristen Bowles as she prepares to show customers at the Landmark Town Square Restaurant her new hairstyle from Trendsetters, make-up from Just For You and jewelry by India Inc. in a recent fashion show.

HANDWORK — A close-up of a woman's hands holding a small object, possibly a piece of jewelry or a small bag, during a recent fashion show.

GARDENER AT WORK—Mrs. Gerald E. Williams places plants in one of several flower beds ornamenting her family's home at 604 Sunset Drive in Bay St. Louis. She says tending for the garden, which includes 57 rose bushes and numerous plants of other varieties, is almost a full-time job. The garden was selected garden of the month for June by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

DECORATED DRIVE—The driveway of the home of Pete and Irma Haddad of 652 Koula Drive, Diamondhead, is ornamented with a teardrop-shaped garden and rows of pink-flowered bushes on either side. The Bay-Waveland Garden Club selected the Haddads' yard as Diamondhead's garden of the month for June.

CIVIC BEAUTIFICATION—The Bay-Waveland Garden Club's civic beautification award for the month of June has been placed in front of McDonald's in Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center in Waveland. The parking lot of the restaurant is ornamented with shrub gardens.

St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church

Parish News

By Rev. B.C. Keller, SVD.
The faith that bids us gather was hended down to us. Two energetic promoters of that transmission were the apostles Peter and Paul. In their living and dying, we see the faithful following of Jesus in terms we can understand.

Our Fair Softball tournament will continue today on our ballfield at St. Rose this morning at 10 a.m. Seafood dinners will be served on field.

Snowball and concession stand will be open. Booths will open on the Fair Lane at 7 p.m. Donations of candy, cakes and plants are still needed. All ticket money must be in rectory by 9 p.m.

The Russell Alexander family wishes to express its appreciation for the many expressions of sympathy extended during its time of bereavement.

Special thanks to the parents who provided the children with refreshments during the recent Vacation Bible School. The children enjoyed them tremendously. Next summer we will have a two-week session.

Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Regular parish council meeting will be on Thursday, July 12.

MASS SCHEDULE

Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Daily, Monday through Saturday, at 6:30 a.m.

Gulf Coast antiques show scheduled for July 6-8

The Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi will provide the setting for the 12th annual Gulf Coast Antiques Show, sponsored by the Women of the Church of the Redeemer of Biloxi on July 6-7 and 8 and featuring exhibitors from 12 states.

The extensive and varied collection of antiques to be offered for sale at this show will include 17th, 18th and 19th century American, English and French country and period furniture.

Accessories, including heirloom silver, dolls, porcelain, a silver, matching service, paintings, Russian enamels, icons, prints, maps, lithographs, pre-Columbian artifacts, art glass, African art, Georgian and Victorian jewelry, weaponry, cut glass, Oriental rugs and carpets, folk art, primitive and country Americana and fine linens will also be displayed.

In our homes, furnishings from the past imbue our lives with a sense of bygone-times and places, whether we choose antique pieces, exemplary, of superb craftsmanship or today's new furniture which reveals the enduring quality of classic designs.

Two or three pieces from the past can bring a bit of living history to any decorating theme.

Both Visa and Master Charge will be honored at most booths. In addition, a $25 gift certificate, redeemable at any booth, will be awarded daily.

Show hours will be from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Phone charges increase for some businesses

Effective with June 5 bills, South Central Bell began billing multi-line business customers a $6 end user common line charge.

The Federal Communications Commission has ordered businesses with more than one access line to pay the monthly per-line charge.

"This charge does not apply to single-line business or residence customers," explained Don Roberts, district manager.

The FCC has delayed the charges for these customers until June, 1984, he said.

If a customer has more than one business telephone line in South Central Bell's service area in Mississippi, he is considered a multi-line customer and the $6 charge will apply to each line.

"These charges will help replace some of the subsidies to local telephone service that currently flow from long distance revenues," said Roberts.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose to wear her mother's heirloom wedding gown of ivory satin and imported chantilly lace. The formal gown was fashioned with a high neckline, graduated into a knee-length lace peplum forming a point into the cathedral train. Lace-covered buttons adorned the back from the neckline to the hip as well as both sleeves were buttoned from just above the fingertips to the elbow. Her illusion veil was elbow-length and fell from a coronet of silk stephanotis, orange blossoms and pearl roses.

She carried a cascade of white roses, baby's breath, greenery, flower-tipped streamers centered by a large white orchid.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. Danny A. Ray of Waveland, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Mmes. William H.

Colley Jr., Mandeville, La., Greg Mangricina, Metairie and Gary Noustens, New Orleans. Kelly Colley of Mandeville, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Mr. Waldon Anthony Rogers Jr. served his brother as best man.

Groomsmen were Messr. William H. Colley Jr., brother of the bride; John Varisco and Edward Bowers.

Ushers were Messrs. David Sollenberger, Henry C. Desmare Jr. and John Parker. Ringbearer was John Wayne Davis, nephew of the groom.

A reception was held at The Balcony in Metairie immediately following the ceremony. After their honeymoon trip to Fort Walton Beach, Fla., the young couple will reside in Metairie.

Pre-Nuptial Parties

Mmes. Gary Noustens, Dany Ray and William Colley Jr. hosted a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Noustens in New Orleans East. The bride's fellow-employees at Equifax Insurance Service Co. honored her with a luncheon/shower at their office in Lakeside Mall, Metairie.

The mother of the bride, Dee Colley, held a bridesmaids' luncheon at the Shieldsboro Square/Landmark Restaurant in downtown Bay St. Louis.

Following the wedding rehearsal, an informal buffet was hosted by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Waldon Anthony Rogers at the home of the son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Waldon Anthony Rogers Jr., Metairie.

ETV Brief

RADIO FANTASY

When comedy writer Douglas Adams gazed upon the stars one night while hitchhiking in Spain, little did he know that he was to turn his fantasy into an award-winning radio series and then into a television series for an international audience.

"The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy," the seven-part TV series based on the radio hit and on Adams' Spanish reverie, will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV at 10 p.m. Mondays, beginning July 2. It was first seen on ETV last year.

As the series begins, things are not going well for Arthur Dent (Simon Jones), who has just discovered that his house is about to be demolished by a bulldozer.

Not quite prepared to accept this imminent disaster standing up, Arthur lies down in the bulldozer's path and refuses to budge.

SECOND SEASON

"The MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour" begins its second season in its new hourly format on Monday, July 2. The week-daily series can be seen on Mississippi ETV at 6 p.m.

The news analysis program expanded from a half-hourly to an hourly format last September. It was the first, early-evening, hour-long news program on American television.

Anchored by Robert MacNeil in New York and Jim Lehrer in Washington, the program offers comprehensive coverage of the day's major news story and in-depth coverage of other important stories. The program also includes a daily summary of other news events.

The Philadelphia Inquirer has reported: "The experience, intelligence and charm of MacNeil and Lehrer make them the most successful network co-anchors since NBC's old team of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley."

Don't spoil July 4 with food poisoning

Mississippians will be out celebrating the 4th of July in hundreds of ways this week.

Many of those celebrants may be prime targets for a stomachache that can spoil the holiday fun.

"Don't spend the 5th of July in the doctor's office with food poisoning or other food-borne illness," said Nelda Starks, a nutrition education specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Starks warns against what she calls the "sickness germs" that can be so prevalent in the home kitchen, around a campsite or on picnic grounds during summer holidays.

"Precautions against these germs are the same wherever people are," she said.

The nutrition specialist offers a list of nine rules of cleanliness Mississippians can follow this 4th of July to ward off any problems with food poisoning. They are the following:

—Wash hands before preparing food and following any interruptions during food preparation. Wash hands again after handling raw meat, fish, poultry or eggs.

—Wash utensils and food containers in soap or detergent and the hottest water available, preferably in an automatic dishwasher. Wash chopping blocks and counters before and after each use.

—Do not wash pet dishes in the kitchen sink if it can possibly be avoided. If you have no choice, scour the sink and adjacent areas thoroughly.

—Exterminate flies, insects and rodents.

—Use separate sponges or dishcloths for counter wiping and dishwashing.

—Cook foods thoroughly and serve immediately after cooking or refrigerate. Store leftovers promptly in the refrigerator or discard. Food that has thawed must be cooked and never refrozen. Plan picnic menus with the least perishable foods.

—Use separate plates, cups, glasses and utensils for each person. Do not use the same glass or cup for more than one person. Do not use the same glass or cup for more than one person.
